

Allowing the use cell phones in the air would be a disaster in the making. It is a safety issue not because of the interference of the cell phone with the planes equipment but because people don't seem to be able to use phones without screaming into them. Three hundred or so screaming people will lead to arguments and physical fights that will endanger everyone on the flight.